DONUT ABOUT THE COLLECTION

DONUT

INSPIRATIONS

In creating the Donut collection, designer Pia Chevalier drew her inspiration from the world of baking. The ceramic artist imagined these cups and mugs as cakes – their handles representing the dough, and a varnished finish for a sugar-glazed coating look.

The variations in shape and thickness of these pieces, the uneven texture, and the cracks in the varnish reflect the variety of craftsmanship techniques used to produce this collection.

ABOUT THE DESIGNER

Pia Chevalier is an independent designer, who received training at French fine arts and crafts school Boulle in design and craftsmanship with a specialisation in decoration and surface treatment. Pia now has her own studio at the Orfèverie, where goldsmith company Christofle's manufacturing outlet used to be based. Designer Pia Chevalier lets spontaneity take over in her creative process and in the composition of her pieces.

Her love for raw materials constantly inspires her to transform them with a view to creating unique objects. Chevalier focuses on everyday objects, making them stand out like sculptures and granting them the power to establish an emotional bond. After six years of vocational training in craftsmanship and design at French fine arts and crafts school Boulle in Paris, Pia has been designing objects that verge on unique pieces and works of art.

Pia Chevalier's work revolves around everyday objects, which she perceives as sculptures fitted with a power to stir up emotional bonds. She strives to bestow solemnity on her pieces, conferring on them an endearing quality.
